

Germans Slaughter Civilians In Denmark As Sabotage Continues

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Encouraging words from popular King Christian X today heartened the Danish people who have refused to crack under a German military dictatorship enforced, eyewitnesses said, by merciless street executions.

Refugees who fled to Sweden declared they had seen German mechanized troops pour machinegun fire into groups of Danes waiting on safety-zone platforms for street cars.

Three Danes who laughed and joked when German soldiers marched by were shot to death without a word of warning, eye witnesses added.

Drastic measures were ordered by Gen. Hermann Van Hanneken, military dictator, to restore a "state of normalcy" to the nation which revolted against Nazi occupation and was sabotaging German troop supplies and arms production.

King Christian who has been imprisoned with Queen Alexandra in Sorgenfri Castle since the Germans took over the Danish government Sunday, made his first public appearance yesterday—a short automobile outing under the watchful eyes of a German military guard.

In the little town of Lyngby near Sorgenfri Castle, a thousand Danes ignored Hanneken's prohibition against assemblies to cheer their king and queen.

King Christian's words to the gathering were brief—"I am happy to hear the Danish language still spoken in my country, continue with that." They were significant, however, for the Danes who apparently interpreted them as an approval of their stout-hearted resistance against overwhelming odds.

Hanneken, having crushed Denmark's brief military revolt, ruthlessly carried out against any small assemblies of Danes his threat to disperse groups without consideration of human lives.

German troops kept up continuous patrols in Copenhagen and other large cities in armored cars.

The dictator's iron hand methods restored at least surface calm to much of Denmark.

Details of conditions inside Denmark came from eyewitnesses who were brought to Sweden in a Danish minesweeper.

Berlin Is Hit By Heavy Bomb Raid

Great Fleets of Allied Warplanes Roar Over Germany Capital In Concentrated Assault—'Great Damage' Reported And Fires Seen Blazing By Returning Fliers

LONDON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Great fleets of RAF heavy bombers blasted Berlin last night in a flaming 45-minute, concentrated assault of block-buster and incendiary bombs to usher in the fifth year of war for Germans with an ordeal of fire and exploding steel.

Here's a little balm for you folks who may have stuck your tongues in your cheeks and gone to the Fair just a little uncertain about your wartime obligations. . . maybe you didn't know it, but you added $1,390.87 to Uncle Sam's treasury to help buy the things the boys doing the fighting need. . . of course, that's not a whole lot of money when they are talking of the cost of making war in boxcar figures. . . but don't forget that old argument about every little bit helping. . . Frank E. Ellis has just given the internal revenue agent a check for $1,390.87 as the federal tax on admissions, that represents 10 percent at both gate and grandstand on all admissions over a dime. . . that may not buy a battleship. . . but it could pay the bill for a lot of bullets and such. . . and, what's more, you who took in the Fair and got a bit of relaxation are probably doing a better job of producing food for victory and war materials. . . it always has seemed to me that the youngsters fit for the armed services can "take it" without a recess better than the oldsters who need time now and then to catch their breath. . . the Fair offered that sort of breather. . . and I don't believe there was very much gasoline or rubber used by the Fair-goers, for few of them here drove more than a dozen miles.

Incidentally, the state cut another, though much smaller, slice of admissions. . . it amounted to $134.07.

"Great damage" was inflicted on the Nazi capital in this second massive assault in eight days, the air ministry announced. Mosquito bombers hit Berlin twice following a saturation raid a week ago last Monday night.

Forty-seven bombers and one fighter were lost as the bombers bored through stiff defense by German fighters, and other airfields, in France and the low planes struck targets, including countries. "Several" Nazi fighters were downed.

The first formations of bombers, with Canadians throwing their heaviest planes into the attack also, began pouring down explosives at 11:30 P. M. and continued the hail into the morning of another year of war.

"Broken clouds at low levels made it difficult to assess results visually, but large fires were seen and indications are that great damage was done in this 76th assault on Berlin," the communique said.

Observers on the British southeast coast declared the drone of the Berlin-bound bombers was heard overhead for two hours.

SYNTHETIC TIRES PROVEN BY TESTS

Pre-war Wearability Seen by WPB Head

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Rubber Director William M. Jeffers said today the all-synthetic tires on which millions of motorists will be rolling next year will come close to pre-war wearability.

Should it become possible to lift the 35-mile-an-hour speed limit, Jeffers told reporters, drivers could run "at normal speeds" on synthetic casings without fear of tire failure. He didn't define normal speeds.

Early synthetic tires showed a life of about 15,000 miles under testing, but the rubber chief pointed out that manufacturers were working with a strange material then. But now, he added, they have "learned a lot."

BOYS ARE RESCUED FROM PILE OF SAND

Buried Up to Chins After Night Near Death

CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Two boys buried to their chins in a shifting sand pile for 14 hours were rescued today by firemen after two hours of frantic digging.

Ten-year-old Anthony Gudic and Robert Sall, 9, tumbled into the huge sand pile at the Cleveland Building Supply Co. about 6 P. M. yesterday and struggled throughout the night to keep their heads from being covered. Their shouts were unanswered while police started a search for the boys, whose parents had reported them missing.

Searchers received a report that cries had been heard in the vicinity of the Supply Company and found the boys nearly exhausted. A steam shovel and hand shovels were used to free them.

LICENSE SUSPENDED FOR HOME FOR AGED

COLUMBUS, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The state has suspended the license of the Jones Home for the Aged in Cincinnati until the local health board completes an investigation of conditions within the home, prompted by the death of 12 residents from Aug. 1 to 18, an Ohio Welfare Department official reported today.

Mrs. Zoe McCaleb, home inspection supervisor for the Ohio Bureau of Aid for the Aged, said Dr. Carl A. Wilzbach, Cincinnati health commissioner, definitely established that an outbreak of dysentery had occurred among the home's occupants.

U. S. NAVY FORCE IS AFTER BASE CLOSER TO JAPAN

Planes and Ships Launch Attack for Strategic Pacific Outpost

DETAILS NOT YET GIVEN

Japs Worried Because of Increased Danger of Bombs on Homeland

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The United States Pacific fleet, challenging Japan's still powerful navy to battle in its own home waters, has hurled a powerful force of war planes and ships against the enemy base on Marcus Island.

News of the operation against the strategic outpost came from both Washington and Tokyo. The Washington announcement said the action was planned for Sept. 1 (Japanese time; Aug. 31 domestic time) and indicated it might still be in progress today. If this were true the intent apparently would be to level the island's defenses.

The first information came from Tokyo which said that many planes and naval guns poured bombs and shells into Marcus at dawn. Washington followed this with announcement before noon today saying that a carrier task force raid was planned for Sept.

BELLBOY IS GRILLED ON KILLING OF WAC

Previously Told Story About 'Woman in Black'

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Lt. Noel Jones, city detective said today police were questioning Robert Wolfington, 23-year-old Claypool Hotel bellboy, in connection with the slaying in the hotel Saturday night of WAC Corporal Maoma L. Ridings, 32, of Columbus, Ga.

Wolfington, charged with vagrancy and held under $5,000 bond after his arrest last night, previously had been quoted by Jones as saying that he delivered ice to Corp. Ridings' room where, about two hours later, her half nude body was found.

The bellboy told police, Jones said, that when he brought the ice to Corp. Ridings' room he didn't see anyone, but that a woman's voice called to him from the bathroom that he would find a 25-cent tip on the dresser.

RAISINS AND PRUNES BACK ON RATION LIST

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Dried and dehydrated prunes and raisins will go back under rationing September 5 with a value of 4 points a pound.

The Office of Price Administration (OPA) announced at the same time today that other dried or dehydrated fruits will continue to sell point free, but consumers won't get much because the bulk of the production will go to the armed forces and lend-lease.

'Woe To Those Who Incited War' Says Pope In Plea For Peace

By WILLIAM SMITH WHITE
LONDON, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Pope Pius XII called upon the world's leaders today to reach "a just peace," expressing his hope and faith that 1943 would see the end of war "and a new dawn of peace."

The Pontiff spoke for 14 minutes over Vatican radio. The broadcast, in Italian, was recorded and translated at The Associated Press listening post.

Pope Pius recalled efforts to halt hostilities before they began and suggested that his present words of mediation—addressed especially to "all those willing to cooperate for peace"—would be to the advantage of every belligerent without exception.

Speaking on the day that opened the fifth year of the greatest and bloodiest struggle in human history, the Pope was at pains to stress his concern, not for any one nation, but for the whole human family—to those he saw as asking now for nothing "but peace, bread and work."

He placed his special blessing upon those "who understand the great work of a real new order," apparently an indirect thrust at Hitler's "new order" of passion and violence.

"Woe to those who incite to conflicts between peoples, who oppress unarmed and innocent peoples. Upon those the anger

DRAFT-AGE FATHERS NOT SHIFTING JOBS

COLUMBUS, Sept. 1.—(AP)—Only 113 draft-age fathers in the Columbus area of the war manpower commission and 252 in the Cleveland area have applied to the U. S. "All fathers face the draft Oct. 1 if they are not in an essential industry, yet comparatively few men are seeking a change," said Douglas Wilson, Cleveland USES executive.

Nebraska's Bets Covered For War Bond Campaign

(By the Associated Press)
Butter and beans, potatoes, a calf, turkeys—and a buffalo—cover Nebraska's one-hog wager on its War Bond prowess.

Such assorted items are offered by state executives rushing to accept Gov. Dwight Griswold's challenge that Nebraska can out-sell all 47 other states in proportion to their quotas, in the Third War Loan drive opening September 9.

In Washington, the OPA opened a wary eye—and lay in wait. Aren't meat and butter rationed?

Griswold has bet "one beautiful, big corn-fed hog."

Gov. B. B. Hickenlooper of Iowa met the challenge by sending Gov. Griswold a personal check for $37.50, explaining: "It would be difficult to find a 'beautiful, big, corn-fed' Iowa

"The board is fighting for the right of a church to govern ecclesiastical affairs without court interference unless a civil right is involved," the attorney declared.

"In this case, the board feels it has every right to prohibit the defendants from entering church property because they failed to obey rules set down by the church officials and were insubordinate in their actions. We will seek recognition of that right in the supreme court, if necessary."

The governor made public a letter from Beightler requesting the equipment to replace supplies "worn and battered to pieces by hard usage in this campaign." The commander suggested that some of the items might be obtained on loan from the state departments or that "possibly some other good Ohioans may help if our needs are known."

By ROGER GREENE
(By The Associated Press)
The DNB German news agency reported today another German retreat on the eastern front in the Donets basin area southwest of Voroshilovgrad. The dispatch was broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press.

The dispatch said: "Another shortening of the front, involving the possibility of establishing operative reserves, was achieved by a planned withdrawal of German lines in the Voroshilovgrad area which the Soviets attempted in vain to impede."

The regular German communique, recorded by the Associated Press said numerous Russian attacks in the Mius, Rylsk and Vyazma sectors—on widespread sections of the front—were beaten off after violent hand-to-hand combat.

Voroshilovgrad, approximately 70 miles northeast of Stalino and 90 miles north of Taganrog, is already some distance behind the front, and the German announcement indicated the Nazis were falling back upon the defenses of Stalino, their army headquarters for the entire southern front and

CREW OF 5 KILLED IN BOMBER CRASH

Flying Fortress in Plunge Near Lockbourne Base

COLUMBUS, Sept. 1.—(AP)—The crew of five, four officers and an enlisted man, were killed early today in the crash of a Flying Fortress on a farm one mile south of the Lockbourne Army Air Force base, the Public Relations Office announced.

The crash occurred at 1:58 A. M. Officers said the Fortress had been on a routine training flight.

The plane caught fire and was almost destroyed by flames. One of the victims remained unidentified hours after the crash.

Names of the other victims were withheld pending notification of the next of kin.

The plane struck a farm house, shearing off half a bedroom in which Jack Curry, 39, was asleep. Three other occupants of the house were uninjured.

ONE OUT OF FIVE TO FILE INCOME TAX FORMS HERE

S. W. Fennig Tells Who Will Be Required To File

If you have been wondering whether or not you will be required to file an income tax report; if you don't know whether or not you are the estimated one out of five persons here who must file a report, S. W. Fennig, internal revenue representative here, has issued a concise explanation designed to eliminate uncertainty in the minds of taxpayers as to whether or not they will be required to file.

A declaration must be made by single persons or married persons not living with their spouse at the date prescribed for making the declaration if they reasonably expect to have for the taxable year 1943—

A. Gross income of more than $2,700 from wages subject to withholding tax; or

B. Gross income of more than $100 from sources other than wages subject to withholding tax and also gross income of $500 or more from all sources.

A declaration must be made by married persons who are living with their spouse at the date prescribed for making the declaration if they reasonably expect to have for the taxable year 1943—

A. Gross income from wages of both husband and wife subject to withholding tax which exceeds $3,500; or

B. Gross income other than from wages subject to withholding of both husband and wife which exceeds $100, and also their gross income from all sources exceeds $624 for 1943 or the aggregate gross income from all sources of both husband and wife amounts to $1200 or more for either 1942 or 1943.

Individuals, regardless of marital status, who were required to file an income tax return for the taxable year 1942 and whose wages subject to withholding tax for the taxable year 1943 are reasonably expected to be less than such wages for the taxable year 1942 must also make declaration.

ECONOMY FURNITURE STORE IN NEW PLACE

The Economy Furniture Store, which had been occupying the Dunn room on North Fayette Street, has moved into the large room in Memorial Hall, formerly occupied by the A. & P. Market and Wednesday morning opened for business there.

The room has been newly redecorated and much new stock has been added to the store.

by Reuters said, "In every nation, aversion to the methods of total war increases... a doubt whether the continuation of war as this is conformable to national interests or to reason penetrates all hearts."

The Pope said he was "speaking words which will be of advantage to all without exception."

"After so many promises, after so many agreements which were not respected, confidence among nations has dwindled. That is why we are addressing ourselves to all those who are willing to cooperate for peace."

"The war seems to be reaching its culmination," the Holy Father said, Reuters reported.

"In every nation an aversion to the methods of total war increases. The soul of all the people is revolting against violence. A doubt whether the continuation of such a war as this is comfortable to the national interests or to the reason penetrates all hearts."

He blessed all those who "also lend their ears" to mothers bereft of sons lost in war and those "who lend their ear... to people who have suffered so much and who do not ask anything but peace, bread and work."

"Leaders of the peoples should lead nations towards reaching a just peace. Their moderation, their strength or will and of human feeling should give to the survivors of this conflict the hope that the present year will see the end of his conflict and a new dawn of peace over the world."

"In this hope, in this faith we give to all the peoples of the world our apostolic blessing."

of God will descend," Pope Pius declared at another point.

The Holy Father's message to the world was uttered at an hour that found Italy's "war impulse" dead and gone, as Churchill put it, and Russian armies storming forward along an immense and terrible battlefield in the greatest successes they ever achieved.

A sense of approaching crisis in the course and direction and even duration of the struggle was implicit in the Pope's address. Although he mentioned no country specifically, what he said strongly suggested that he believed the time of crisis had arrived, and was in or very near its last great act.

"The war seems to be reaching its culmination" and "the soul of all people is revolting against violence," a paragraph recorded late yesterday for the prisoner to be brought to headquarters this morning.

Grosch said no action would be taken against Lt. Comdr. John P. Vogt who, he said, calmly fired two pistols at the suspect in the police lineup room yesterday wounding the suspect and a policeman standing nearby. Stevens was shot in the left shoulder and the policeman, Jesse Knecht, in the left arm.

"I have been like a crazy man since my child was attacked last July 26," Commander Vogt said at Grosch's office.

"When my baby cried, 'daddy that's the man,' I lost control and tried to shoot him to death."

"Of course," Grosch asserted, "Commander Vogt should not have taken the matter into his own hands. But I know what I would have done if my child had been hurt."

BERLIN IS HIT AGAIN BY HEAVY BOMB ATTACK BY ALLIED WARPLANES

suggesting that the attacking force was as great or greater than that hurled against the city a week ago Monday night, when 2,000 tons of explosives and incendiaries were dropped.

Characteristically the German radio described the assault as a "new terror raid" and asserted that the British bombers had been dispersed with heavy losses by newly reorganized anti-aircraft defenses.

The German air force struck back at England on a comparatively small scale. A few Nazi planes were reported to have swept over the east coast of England during the night, dropping bombs which caused only slight damage.

The RAF raid on Berlin followed a day of intense aerial activity which saw a large force of American Flying Fortresses attack the Amiens-Lille Airport, one of the largest Nazi fighter-plane bases in France, with good results. American medium bombers struck at the Vendeville Airport at Lille and at the Mazingarbe Chemical Works near Bethune in France.

Other daylight activities included a raid by RAF Mitchells and Typhoons on the Nazi airport at St. Pol, France.

during today's closing session of the two-day conference.

Miss Marion E. Martin, assistant chairman of the Republican national committee, told members yesterday that women voters will hold the balance of power in... at least 32 states in next year's presidential election.

Analyzing what she described as a total potential vote of 85,000,000 in 1944, Miss Martin declared the increased force of women voters would favor Republican candidates. The total women's potential vote, Miss Martin asserted, is only 389,337 less than the male vote total.

Potential women voters outnumber males in 12 states, she said, listing them as Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Missouri, New Hampshire, North and South Carolina, Rhode Island and Tennessee. In 20 others, Miss Martin added, men hold a lead of only 1,000 to 15,000 and she predicted the women's vote would decide election outcomes there.

1943 FOOD PRODUCTION TO BE OVER LAST YEAR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(P)—Asserting increases in livestock would more than offset a 9 per cent decline in food crops, the department of agriculture predicted today total 1943 food production would be in excess of last year's record output.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(P)—The German communique in effect disclosed the Russians were attacking along the entire 600-mile front from the Sea of Azov to Smolensk.

Meanwhile, American warships boldly challenging Japan's immediate outer ring of defenses have bombarded Marcus Island, the U. S. Navy announced, only 1,200 miles from Tokyo at dawn today, and a Japanese broadcast warned that "the enemy could have raided the mainland if he wanted to."

Imperial Tokyo headquarters said the attacking force included "many planes," suggesting the presence of one or more U. S. aircraft carriers.

No details were given, but a broadcast indicated that heavy damage was inflicted on the strategic outpost.

"Many enemy planes raided Minamitoku Shima (Marcus) at dawn today, and the enemy shelled the land by naval guns," a broadcast said.

Marcus lies 900 miles northwest of Wake Island, on a line from Wake to Tokyo.

COAL IS MOVING FOR WINTER USE

Trains and Trucks Move Unusual Amounts

With colder weather approaching, there has been an increased movement of coal through this city, northward, both by train and truck.

Most of the coal being hauled by the trains is going to lake ports and northern Ohio cities, while much of the coal hauled by truck is reaching points closer to this city.

The number of trucks engaged in hauling, while not as great as last year, has been increased recently, and the coal is coming from Jackson, Vinton and Hocking counties.

McClintock said the 15 members were expelled "for failure to obey the rules set down by the church officials and for insubordination." He added that they annoyed the minister and the congregation "by whispering and laughing" during services.

YANKS LAUNCH ATTACK ON MARCUS ISLAND TO GET BASE NEAR JAPAN

1, that the plane-laden ships and their escorts should have arrived on schedule and that the attack "is presumably in progress," although no report has been received and none is expected until radio silence can be broken.

Marcus Island is west of the international date line and Sept. 1 there was Aug. 31 in Washington. Thus the navy statement that the attack presumably continues meant that American warships were operating in waters the enemy heretofore has dominated long after their presence became known.

Marcus Island is 1,200 miles southeast of Tokyo and 900 miles northwest of Wake Island on a line with Tokyo.

The action is the first against this enemy held outpost guarding vital Japanese positions in the central Pacific since March 4, 1942.

There was no indication in either the Tokyo statements or the navy disclosures here to show whether the action was limited to Marcus Island or whether American forces had struck simultaneously at other points.

The Japanese obviously were badly worried, however, the Tokyo radio pointing out that a force which succeeded in raiding Marcus might have struck at Japan itself.

The American naval spokesman said:

"A carrier task force raid planned for September 1 is presumably in progress at Marcus Island. The United States task force should have arrived on scheduled time. However, no report has been received from the raiding force and it is presumed that there will be none until need for radio silence ceases to exist."

Not in 20 months of this war has the navy issued a statement reporting a raid while it still was in progress. The announcement today indicated complete confidence of the high command here that the task force was so powerful as to be able to cope with any forces the Japanese might attempt to throw against it.

There was about the announcement a suggestion of war of nerves planning with the navy possibly deliberately attempting to confront the Tokyo admirals with so direct a challenge that they would be compelled sooner or later to throw their main fleet into action.

Marcus, so far as could be learned here, is not one of the main Japanese bases such as Truk Island further to the south but it is an important defensive position and listening post guarding the southeastern approaches to the Tokyo-Yokohama area, heart of Japan.

When an American task force raided Marcus on March 4, 1942, under the leadership of Admiral William F. Halsey, now the American fleet commander in the south Pacific, no enemy aircraft or ships were present, but heavy anti-aircraft fire was encountered.

The American planes dropped 96 bombs on the small island, damaging hangars, fuel and ammunition dumps, radio installations and aircraft runways. The American force lost only one aircraft.

troops who landed on Arundel Island, just west of conquered New Georgia, advanced without opposition toward a point where artillery can easily shell the 10,000-man Japanese garrison at Vila, on Kolombangara Island.

No wonder that attention she attracts
Because she wears a pair of brand new slacks.

And the smile upon her face so bright
I wondered does she work the day shift or the night.
I couldn't tell from where I stood
But Oh Boy, she did look good!
For neatness and poise she never lacks

As she rambles by in her new slacks.

We must admire these girls that work
They feel that it's their duty, and they don't shirk
Grumble or growl, about the dirt and oil

They're patriotic and for our boys they toil.
So off comes our hats and our brains we rack
For nice things to say about our girls in slacks.

Maybe the hours seem long and dreary
Perhaps they come home tired and weary
But they know this is the land of the free
And our flag waves for you and for me.
They're helping our boys take those cracks
At Nazis and Japs—so three cheers for our girls in slacks.

A MARINE'S PRAYER

Dear God, in a world that's racked
With war,
Let me think of the coming years
When the cannon's core has ceased its roar.
And the nations dry their tears.
Keep Thou my heart unblemished. Give Me strength to wait release;
And let me live as a man should live
In a fight for the God of Peace.

O Father, grant that I may last
To build the world again;
To know when pestilence is past
A brotherhood of men.
Bless Thou the aged with Thy light;
Protect our troubled youth;
And let me fight as a man should fight
In a war for the God of Truth.

Thy will be done, if Thou decree
That I shall die afield,
Sustain me, lest I yield.
Let no man cry, he saw me fly
The battle's agency,
And let me die as a man should die
In a fight for liberty.

G. E. LORD,
Pfc. U. S. Marine Corps.

BE OPTIMISTIC

Be optimistic all the time,
In spite of adverse things;
Look on the bright side of life's game.
Forget its many stings.

For what you seek is what you get,
A smile reaps not a frown;
Eventually your game you'll win;
Life's not all up or down.

Believe in what is true and best,
Slur not another's game,
But cheerfully try to understand,
Accept, if yours the blame.

Bear not a chip to be knocked off,
For knockers you will find;
It's better far to make mistakes,
Than have a biased mind.

WELFARE OF YANKS ASSURED MRS. FDR

New Zealanders Regard This As Sacred Trust

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Sept. 1.—(P)—New Zealanders attending a civic reception today for Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt applauded a declaration of Auckland's Mayor J. A. C. Allums that "so long as American sons and daughters are serving here we regard their welfare as a sacred trust."

They also cheered when he asked the American First Lady to convey to President Roosevelt New Zealand's appreciation for his service to the Allied cause.

Allums said the visit of Mrs. Roosevelt to this British dominion has "given us great pleasure."

In reply, the president's wife expressed a hope for international unity after victory has been attained as a surety for a happier world, especially for young people.

WARPLANE OUTPUT IS BEHIND SCHEDULE

Summer Slump Threatens Production Goals

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—(P)—July aircraft production was 12 percent behind schedule, a War Production Board (WPB) spokesman disclosed today, despite Monday's announcement that plane output was 4 percent above June, with a total of 7,373 aircraft produced.

As a result of the summer slump some WPB officials have concluded that this year's 65 billion dollar overall arms production goal will not be met.

Top officials stoutly assert that the goal still can be achieved, but qualified observers within the agency reckon that 62 billion dollars is closer to the attainable.

This, the navy said today, is a new record for speed in launching of vessels of this type. The escort ship is being constructed for the British.

THE WAR TODAY

Russia Too Busy With Nazis To Get Involved With Japs Churchill's Praise Infers

Britain's Prime Minister Churchill in his speech at Quebec yesterday brought out that "it would not have been suitable" for Russia to be represented at the recent Anglo-American conference which "would largely, if not mainly, be concerned with heating and inflaming the war against Japan, with whom the Soviet government has a five-year treaty of non-aggression."

That gives us one answer to the interminable query as to why Russia doesn't make war on Japan, or at least grant Britain and America the use of Siberian airfields so that we can get at the Japanese mainland. If cynics sniff at this, there's a much more realistic explanation of Moscow's attitude.

Quite apart from the non-aggression pact, it's unlikely that there's anyone in the Allied councils who would dream of asking an already overburdened Soviet to take on the added task of fighting Japan. My understanding is that high Allied circles feel it would be positively brutal to suggest any such thing.

Mr. Churchill himself declared that no country ever had withstood such a devastating attack as that thrown at the Russians by the Hitlerites. He said he didn't blame Russia for any criticism it had leveled at its Allies for not having opened a second front on the continent. He added that the terrific Allied aerial attack on Germany wouldn't have been possible without the magnificent stand of the Russians against the Germans.

Were the Soviet at war with Japan, Moscow today wouldn't be celebrating its third major victory in three days. The Nazi military giant facing the Reds wouldn't be rocking on his hob-nailed heels. The Allies likely would be viewing the war "through a glass, darkly."

Moscow has told us that there are more than 3,000,000 German troops, apart from satellite forces, on the eastern front. From the start Hitler massed the bulk of his terrifying striking power against the Reds in what probably has been the bloodiest fighting of all time.

Even if you look on the non-aggression pact as a scrap of paper, it would be sheer military folly for Stalin to open hostilities against Japan while still engaged with Hitler. True, Russia is supposed to have between 750,000 and 1,000,000 troops close to Manchukuo; the Soviet is said to have a strong air-force in Siberia, and a large fleet of submarines at Vladivostok. The Russians could hold their own, but the Japs also have perhaps a million men available in Manchukuo and northern China and are set for contingencies.

But, asks somebody, why can't Russia let Britain and America use Siberian air bases for attacks against Japan? Well, the answer is that this would be tantamount to a Soviet declaration of war on the Japs.

Will Russia join the Allies against Japan after the European conflict is ended? We'll have to page Marshal Stalin for that one. However, we can see for ourselves that the non-aggression pact looms large. That historic document was signed April 13, 1941, and doesn't expire until 1946. If neither party denounces it one year before expiration, it's automatically renewed.

So unless Japan gives just cause, Russia can't declare war without breaking her bond. Who asks her to do that? If you want the Reds to fight against Japan you'd better pray mighty hard that the Japs commit some hostile act—and stranger things than hostile acts have happened.

Viewing the matter from the purely "practical" standpoint, what reason is there to expect that Russia will do other than be governed by honor and personal interests after the war with Germany is finished? Getting down to cases, do you know any nation that's in this global holocaust purely for altruistic reasons?

Should circumstances release Moscow from its non-aggression pact, there's no present reason to doubt that the Reds would at least throw open their airports to the Allies. It shouldn't be forgotten that Japan is Russia's mortal enemy, the pact notwithstanding. Still, that doesn't necessarily guarantee that Russia will go all-out in war against Japan.

ORPHANS' HOME HEAD SPEAKER AT ROTARY CLUB

Former Legion Commander of Ohio Emphasizes Need of Community Responsibility

Although no subject was announced, "Home and Community Responsibility" could well have been the topic for one of the most interesting talks of the year before the Rotary Club at its Tuesday luncheon at the Country Club. Floyd Hartpence, past state commander of the American Legion and now superintendent of the Ohio Soldiers and Sailors Orphans Home at Xenia, was the speaker and he made a strong impression upon his audience with his remarks concerning our individual and family responsibilities.

Supt. Hartpence was formerly identified with the Columbus public schools and since taking over his new duties at the OS & SO Home under very trying wartime conditions, has been making marked progress and achieving distinct success in his work there.

He was accompanied to the Rotary meeting by several members of the Paul H. Hughey Post of the American Legion here. These were Herbert E. Wilson, commander of the post, R. B. (Bud) Sharp and T. H. Craig, Jr.

In opening his remarks the speaker discussed "Fear" as one of the much mooted Four Freedoms of the Atlantic Charter—"Freedom from Fear." He declared that he was not touching upon this from the political viewpoint, but rather as a basis for his further discussion. He recounted how fear had been one of mankind's enemies from the dawn of man's history, how all of us in our childhood days and even later were inclined to fear something, real or imaginary. "Today," he said, "much of the fear of people all over the world has been due to a feeling of lack of definite security. And that in turn has led to a gradual willingness to permit personal responsibility to be shifted from the shoulders of most of us, either to some one else or to government in the hope that we may thus be assured of that security which we instinctively desire."

In developing this line of thought the speaker pointed out how this type of fear psychology has been a trend which has played right into the Nazi and Fascist philosophy of totalitarian government, where people from childhood up are taught to do assigned jobs and to let leaders of government do all the planning. Thus is individual initiative, much ambition and personal enterprise being lost to people on the promise of a planned security. "What we must think about today, all of us, is what will the present generation of children be 15 to 25 years from now?" the speaker asserted. "The control of the destiny of youth is one of the perhaps unspoken, but important things for which this war is being fought."

Hartpence told interestingly of some of his experience in dealing with the young people in the OS & SO Home where the feeling of unrest among the young people is as apparent as it is in private homes all over the country. He related how the children in his institution were bound to have a feeling of something lacking and in most cases it was an often unexpressed desire for parents, some one to tie to, which would give them a greater feeling of security.

He touched on the growing problems of juvenile delinquency which are becoming alarmingly in many places over this country, and elsewhere, and of the failure on the part of many homes to recognize the responsibility of the family unit—the home—and what it means to the future of growing children.

"So many people are lacking in this responsibility and have become so selfish in their personal desires and pleasures that thousands of children are suffering from a too greatly relaxed discipline and are losing the influence and training which they sorely need," he said.

He referred to the many empty pews in our churches at home as compared to the reports from army camps where most of the soldiers are attending some form of religious service, in most cases conducted by army and navy chaplains. Comparing the civilian and army church service attendance the speaker pointed to this as some evidence of the tendency toward sidestepping responsibility on the part of people at home. To those here at home who feel that the church leadership is not keeping step in interesting the people, he still held that this was the fault of the people themselves who did not see to it that their church leaders got in step with the needs of the times and kept there.

He called attention to the many cases of mothers, as well as fathers, who are often engaged in war work, leaving their children at home or in the streets, sometimes locking their children in their homes for as long as eight hours at a time, in other cases even locking their children in trailers in which the families live. "Some parents assert that this is a necessity and maybe it is in many cases," he said. "But isn't there something lacking in our general set-up that permits so much of this?" he asked.

In closing, the speaker warned that we must become alert to what is taking place in our present trends or we may find that we will have "defeated an enemy on the battlefronts yet lost the essence of victory in the world revolution which is changing our thoughts and our habits of life."

A. B. Murray, vice president of Rotary, who presided in the absence of President Carroll Halliday, called upon Attorney Ray Maddox for a response and the latter complimented the speaker for the thought-provoking address he had given and said that he, and he knew other club members and guests, had been especially interested in the presentation of the problem of the shifting of individual responsibility and allowing more and more responsibility to become a government function. He said that we now have people all about us advocating that all functions of our public schools become a matter of federal government control and that in his opinion this was leading toward the same dangerous channels to which the speaker had called attention.

STATE HIGHWAY CREWS ACTIVE IN THE COUNTY

Good Hope Road Receives Surface Treatment Over Two Miles

Crews of the State Highway Department in Fayette County have been active for many weeks, looking after patching and surface treating of the large mileage of highways in the county and Tuesday completed the work of surface treating the Good Hope road from the Chillicothe Highway to the Mrs. John King home, two miles south of route 35.

Tuesday afternoon a crew started an extensive patching job on the Snow Hill road which will place that important route in condition for the coming winter.

The Snow Hill road is to be patched from Route 62 (Leesburg Road) to the Clinton County line, and in some places the patching will be extensive, due to the broken condition of the surface.

All of the surface treating and patching work in the county is being done by local crews although formerly a regular crew from outside of the county looked after the surface treating of the roads.

By reason of this additional work and a shortage of labor generally, weed cutting has been somewhat neglected in the county, but the work is being carried forward as rapidly as possible, and U. S. 22 east to New Holland is to receive attention this week.

During September the work of sealing fissures in the paved roads will be carried forward in order to prevent the roads suffering unnecessary damage by freezing and thawing during the winter.

NO FORMALITIES AS WADE STORE OPENS FRIDAY

New Store Is Located at 209 East Court Street

Showing of a "complete new line of fall styles for men, women and children" will mark the opening of Wade's new shoe store next Friday instead of a formal ceremony. The new shop is located at 209 East Court Street in the room formerly occupied by the Victory Soda Grill.

O. O. Wade, in discussing the new store, said that he had in mind the increased demands on business, standardization of styles and shoes on the allotment basis from manufacturers plus rationing to customers and that he was interested in a modern and up-to-date outlet for good shoes at a time when the public was most concerned in correct fitting.

After he sold his entire stock to the G. C. Murphy company last February, Wade did not intend to continue in the retail shoe business, but after the closing of the former store, he decided to re-open in another location and re-purchased the remaining stock and fixtures to open another retail store.

Nearly all the fixtures used in the old store are transferred to the new location, which is "larger and more convenient" than the old store, Wade pointed out. He has spent 24 years in the retail shoe business.

The inside of store room is paneled in walnut and is furnished with green and cream leather seats and walnut show cases for hosiery and hand-bags. The lobby is floored with linoleum while the main part of the store floor is covered with green carpet.

NEW FIGHTING FRONT SOON

It seems safe to predict that the second European land front will be established soon, not because of the pressing vocal demands of Moscow and of Communist fellow-traveler elements here, but because sound military considerations now make a second land front feasible.

Perhaps it will not be accurate to speak of what is ahead as "a second front." If laymen may be permitted to speculate, conceding in advance that they are merely drawing what seem like logical inferences, it is not one new land front that we should expect, but two or three or perhaps even more.

There seems little question that the tremendous hammering of the Rhineland is a softening-up process aimed at some specific development in the rather near future. What could this be except an invasion by way of the French coast, the Low Countries, Scandinavia, or some combination of these routes? Aerial blows at French and Low Country airports and other installations direct attention there.

Meanwhile, it is no less obvious to the armchair strategist that the placement of Allied bombs in Italy portends a blow by the soldiery not fundamentally at the toe, the instep or the heel—whence it would be necessary for our men to slog their weary way up the length of the peninsula—but somewhere considerably north of the foot.

If we were in Herr Hitler's and Signor Badoglio's place and were predicating our defenses upon what laymen in the United States know, we should anticipate an invasion in the vicinity of Naples and another down in the foot, of tremendous forces which—if we were those unestimable Axis warriors—we should know would crush all Axis troops that are in Italy from Naples south.

Simultaneously, we should fear that equally strong Allied forces would turn northward toward Rome, after drawing a cutoff line east and west across the peninsula and cleaning up some useful airports in south central Italy.

Of course, President Roosevelt and Premier Churchill did say that they were discussing the Far Eastern situation in Quebec. But they did not say that they did not discuss Europe also. And, moreover, reason says that plans for the next act were laid months ago—and that overt developments resulting from Quebec will constitute a later chapter in the tragedy that the Axis faces.

Again, this is all speculation. It doesn't mean a thing. But it is fun to speculate, isn't it?

TAXES AND THE WAR

Shortly after the President's request for a "truly stiff program of additional taxes, savings, or both," Chairman Walter F. George of the Senate Finance committee warned that drastically higher income taxes on individuals may destroy the middle classes. He cautioned against higher corporate rates that would cripple industry and create disastrous results in the postwar era. The senator from Georgia estimated that some $5,000,000,000 or

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—This used to be one of the greatest tourist towns in the country. It still is. The only difference is that today most of the tourists wear uniforms.

In Norfolk, Pensacola, Miami Beach, Atlantic City, Seattle, San Diego and a score of other cities want to argue about their proportionate number of uniformed men and women. I'll quickly concede. But I'll still argue that Washington is tourist town.

The Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, the recently opened Jefferson Memorial, all white and shining just across the Tidal Basin, are doing a land-office business. And the officials at these three monuments tell me that 50 per cent or more of the customers these days wear khaki, blue or white. The visitors stand ga-ga before these memorials, look over them in a sort of daze and walk off starry-eyed.

In the national Capitol, this glint isn't as quickly kindled. The Capitol is a "pile of stone," full of historic murals, chambers, statues, and Congress—but all of them, including Congress when in session) are a little confusing. Nevertheless, the Capitol is still in there pitching and at least 30 per cent of the tourists, even in summer time, are in uniform.

These four Washington shrines have seen some reduction in visitors in the last year, but the reduction doesn't compare with the loss in civilian tourist travel. The only spot that can compete with them is the White House and just walking around the White House iron fence is such a succession of challenges by Military Police guards that even the most persistent tourists are discouraged after a block or so.

Getting inside, which used to be a relatively simple matter (White House tours were on the regular daily agenda) is now as impossible as trying to get a clean slate from J. Edgar Hoover, with a swastika on your arm.

In spite of all this, the National Capitol doesn't hold the same appeal for tourists that it used to.

A tourists' gathering place is a little shack in Post Square. I think its official title is "Free Tickets to Service Men Hut." To give it its proper designation is more painful than that. It's the creation of the Amusement Division of the War Activities Committee and the War Hospitality Committee of the Civilian Mobilization Division of what I can't even remember.

They give away around 11,000 ducats a week to service men. They give them to women in the service, too, but the women can't get passes to movies and men in the services can't get passes but for one, if they are accompanied by a lady. Why, nobody seems to know.

The giver-outers are the ladies of Washington's Variety Club. They pass range from moonlight rides on the Potomac all the way through the movie theaters to big league baseball games at Griffith Stadium and first-night tickets at the National theater.

One-Minute Test
1. Can you describe the four freedoms flag?
2. When and where was it unfurled?
3. Is the four freedoms flag an official flag?

Words of Wisdom
Absence of occupation is not rest; a mind quite vacant is a mind distressed.—Cowper.

Hints on Etiquette
Be humorous if you can or must, but don't make fun of things that others consider sacred. This is bad manners and will make you unpopular.

Today's Horoscope
You have excellent health if this is your birthday, possess unusual energy and are fond of outdoor activity. You have a strong personality and contact people easily. You are generous, unselfish and devoted to your loved ones. Early this morning work out in your mind a plan by which your church can take care of the ill and of elderly people. This afternoon you may be troubled by a vague feeling of apprehension. Look after your belongings, and make sure that everything is anchored. Don't go up in the air emotionally or actually late this evening. There might be a bad crackup.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. It consists of four vertical red bars on a white field, and is known as the United Nations or four freedoms flag.

2. It was formally unfurled in Washington, March 18, 1943.

3. It is unofficial and is not intended to wave alone, but beside the flag of the country in which it is flown. It was the work of a group of citizens who felt that while the United Nations have no official world council, a flag would bespeak their objectives and gain support for the four freedoms throughout the world.

$6,000,000,000 is the most that can safely be raised without "destroying our taxpayers."

"In order to get five or six billions, the corporate normal and surtax rate must be raised from 40 to 50 percent. This is drastic. Many businesses have not made more money as a result of the war. Many are making less because of government restrictions and lack of materials. Many have gone out of business entirely. Since corporate normal and surtax rates must be uniform, a 50 percent normal tax and surtax, coupled with 90 percent excess profits tax, is the upper limit of what taxes can be imposed without destroying business," the Georgia senator said.

Many other legislators reflected the senator's sentiments that taxes on individuals and corporations had about reached the saturation point. Several advocated a general sales tax to meet the need for more revenue.

Present indications are that there will be a showdown on the sales tax issue (to which the administration has been unalterably opposed) shortly after congress reconvenes on Sept. 14.

The cost of this war is a matter of vital concern to every American taxpayer, not only from the standpoint of personal income taxes, but from the standpoint of our entire industrial structure as well. It therefore behooves everyone who pays a tax (direct or indirect) not only to watch all developments in connection with the tax program, but to keep a weather eye out for such government expenditures as do not appear to have a direct bearing upon the war effort. No true American would see the armed forces handicapped for the supplies they need but conversely no one wants to see expenses out of all proportion to the job that has to be done.

have your favorite tooth powder or paste and your neighbor has his—a different one—and you both put this mixture in your mouth every morning and probably swallow some of it, and yet you probably haven't the faintest idea what chemicals are in it.

I doubt whether your doctor knows what ingredients are in his tooth powder or paste. The basis of most tooth powders, if you want to know, is powdered soap. Oh! they put other things in it, but good old soap cleans your teeth as well as cleans your skin. And the basis of most tooth pastes is glycerine and powdered soap. Sometimes tragacanth, which is a kind of mucilage, perfectly harmless, naturally. In fact, if you want an elegant tooth powder, take this prescription to your druggist:

But as a matter of fact you could certainly get a cheaper and equally good preparation by asking for one of the well-known brands.

Here is the prescription:

Calcium phosphate	50 parts
Tricalcium phosphate	16 "
Sodium bicarbonate	6 "
Zinc peroxide	10 "
Sugar	10 "
Powdered soap, enough to make	100 "

and if you want an elegant tooth paste take this:

Calcium carbonate	32 parts
Kaolin	4 "
Soap powder	16 "
Saccharin	0.2 "
Glycerine	24 "
Water enough to make	100 "

The American Dental Association has just published some researches by Drs. Epstein and Tainter, of San Francisco, on the effectiveness of a series of dental preparations ordinarily obtainable in a drug store. The particular point they wished to determine was how abrasive they were. Several years ago, in fact at the beginning of this century, it was considered that tooth powders should have rough, abrasive particles in order to clean the organic matter from the teeth.

This idea, combined with the habit then in vogue of brushing the teeth crosswise, probably did a good deal of harm. It was proved by Miller, in 1907, that tooth powders could be too abrasive, and that exposure of the gum margins and devitalization resulted. Precipitated chalk containing harsh impurities were the dentin away and out the teeth rapidly.

The research mentioned above was conducted on strictly standardized lines. A machine was used to do the brushing and it treated all preparations with equal force.

In general the conclusions were that no commercial dentifrice now on the market contains too much abrasive. In general they are all beneficial and harmless and about equally so. The important thing is to brush the teeth up and down and in a rotary fashion in order to reduce abrasion.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

E. M. G.: I have a craving for corn meal raw with salt and sugar added. Is there any harm in eating about a tablespoonful a day? Is there a vitamin lacking to cause this craving?

Answer: It will not do you any harm. The animals eat it raw. The experts say that if a vitamin is lacking, no craving appears whatever.

E. S.: Is there a sickness called rabbit fever? How does it act and what causes it?

Answer: Tularemia is the official name. It is caused by a germ, which infects the blood of many wild animals. It is usually imparted to a human when he comes in contact with the blood of the blood containing the germ in a cut on his hand. The hand and arm swell up and large kernels (lymph nodes) appear on the arm. Prevention is by wearing rubber gloves when dressing wild animals. Cooking kills the germ, which does not impair the healthy quality of the meat.

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—This used to be one of the greatest tourist towns in the country. It still is. The only difference is that today most of the tourists wear uniforms.

In Norfolk, Pensacola, Miami Beach, Atlantic City, Seattle, San Diego and a score of other cities want to argue about their proportionate number of uniformed men and women. I'll quickly concede. But I'll still argue that Washington is tourist town.

The Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, the recently opened Jefferson Memorial, all white and shining just across the Tidal Basin, are doing a land-office business. And the officials at these three monuments tell me that 50 per cent or more of the customers these days wear khaki, blue or white. The visitors stand ga-ga before these memorials, look over them in a sort of daze and walk off starry-eyed.

In the national Capitol, this glint isn't as quickly kindled. The Capitol is a "pile of stone," full of historic murals, chambers, statues, and Congress—but all of them, including Congress when in session) are a little confusing. Nevertheless, the Capitol is still in there pitching and at least 30 per cent of the tourists, even in summer time, are in uniform.

These four Washington shrines have seen some reduction in visitors in the last year, but the reduction doesn't compare with the loss in civilian tourist travel. The only spot that can compete with them is the White House and just walking around the White House iron fence is such a succession of challenges by Military Police guards that even the most persistent tourists are discouraged after a block or so.

Getting inside, which used to be a relatively simple matter (White House tours were on the regular daily agenda) is now as impossible as trying to get a clean slate from J. Edgar Hoover, with a swastika on your arm.

In spite of all this, the National Capitol doesn't hold the same appeal for tourists that it used to.

A tourists' gathering place is a little shack in Post Square. I think its official title is "Free Tickets to Service Men Hut." To give it its proper designation is more painful than that. It's the creation of the Amusement Division of the War Activities Committee and the War Hospitality Committee of the Civilian Mobilization Division of what I can't even remember.

They give away around 11,000 ducats a week to service men. They give them to women in the service, too, but the women can't get passes to movies and men in the services can't get passes but for one, if they are accompanied by a lady. Why, nobody seems to know.

The giver-outers are the ladies of Washington's Variety Club. They pass range from moonlight rides on the Potomac all the way through the movie theaters to big league baseball games at Griffith Stadium and first-night tickets at the National theater.

Leave My Heart Alone

BY ADELAIDE HUMPHRIES

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER FORTY-SEVEN

KAREN DID not realize right away that in giving Paul his freedom she was free, too. It took something else to make her realize that, something that was not to happen until the next day. All she realized after she had hung up the receiver when Paul had called her during the night to tell her that Eva had just been practically jilted to feel! But she was glad—glad that Eva would be all right, that she had won, and that everything really WAS settled at last.

If Karen was glad, then she could not have loved Paul, not in the way you should love a person in order to marry him, to have his children, to live with him all the rest of your life, "until death do us part." Love should go beyond death, even; it should be everlasting. Being fond of a person, his being "right" for you, had nothing to do with love, and knowing a person a long while seemed to have nothing to do with it, either. Maybe Eva had been right when she had told Karen that she did not know anything about love at all. Marty had told her much that same thing. Marty, who knew so many things, whom she believed in, and who, apparently, did not intend to come to see her ever again. For if he was coming, surely he would have come by now, since almost two weeks had passed since last she had seen him and Karen had completely recovered from that flesh wound.

The something else that was to happen to make Karen realize that she was free and to make her realize something even more than that was a cable that came that day, at noon, from Denise. Her father sent for Karen to come to his study when he received it. He handed it to her to read before he said anything, but Karen knew that, as had happened once before, the news it brought contained both joy and sorrow.

It said that Raoul had been killed and that he had been given a posthumous medal for bravery in action. It thanked Denise's father for his letter, which had arrived the same day as the news of her husband's death. Denise's answer to that letter was contained in the final message, which said simply that as soon as she could make the necessary arrangements she would come home. It was signed "your loving daughter," which said so much more than that. It said that Denise had forgiven all that was past, that that hard wall of silence and bitterness had crumbled into dust as if it had never been.

"I'm so glad," Karen said, handing back the paper, wiping her eyes, from which tears of joy and sorrow flowed. "That Denise is coming home. I mean, that everything is all right again. It is terrible about Raoul, yet Denise must be proud, too. She will have that to tell his son, when Buffy must learn of his father's death, that his father was a brave man and gave his life for the country he loved."

"Yes, she will have that," Jim Bell said. He blew his nose hard, unashamed of his emotion that was that same mixture as Karen's gladness and regret. "I am glad that I wrote that letter—and that Denise got it in time. She knows that I wrote it before Raoul was killed and that I wanted her—both of them—to come home. I'm glad because of Buffy, who, as you told me once before, my dear, is Raoul's son as well as Denise's. . . . poor little fellow, we will all have to make it up to him the best we can."

"We will," Karen said. Buffy would be fatherless, but he would have a great deal of love. He would have not only his grandfather and herself, but his mother, living in the big house that would be the boy's real home now. She could not help being glad, too, because of that. Buffy would not have to go away, he would not have to return to that far-away country of his birth.

"I will send a cable back at once," her father said—her father and Denise's. "I shall express our sorrow and sympathy, and our joy, as well, that your sister is coming home. I do not suppose it will be possible for Denise to come very soon, although I will do all I can from this end to make it possible."

"I know you will, darling," Karen knew he would move mountains were that possible, but her father might be able to use some influence so that Denise could secure an early passage on some ship bearing exchange passengers, or the like. Denise coming home. Why, that would give Karen the freedom to go away, should she choose, since their father would not then be left alone.

Her father had given her that not long ago, when he had told her he wanted only her happiness, no matter if that meant he should lose her love. He had told her that, Karen saw now, to make complete this freedom that she suddenly realized was hers.

With this realization came that something more—another realization that broke like that clear light of belief into a shining radiance, almost a radiance so dazzling as to be unbelievable, although Karen knew it was "truer than true."

She loved Martin Halliday. She loved him in a way she had never loved Paul. As Denise had loved Raoul, so Marty came first, before everything and everyone. There was a love that passed all understanding, that would go on as long as time itself, as beyond time, even. That was the sort of love Karen knew about now.

Why, were Marty to go away without saying goodbye, Karen could not have borne it; she would have followed him, if possible, to the ends of the earth. If Marty were to be killed in the dangerous game he played in this terrible war, without Karen's having told him of her love, she never could forgive herself.

It did not matter yet whether Marty returned that love or not. Pride did not matter, either, for a love like this held such pride of its own that any lesser vanity was overruled. Indeed, nothing mattered except love, as Karen had once said to her father and as it had taken her all this while to discover and learn.

She would not waste any more time, not so much as a single day, an hour, or any more of a fraction thereof than she needs must. She ran upstairs to get ready, which would not take long, either, as all she had to do was to remove a certain ring that always had been much too magnificent from a certain finger of her left hand. A ring that she would one day return to Paul. It must not be on her finger now that it no longer stood as the symbol that she was betrothed and therefore "safer," as Marty laughingly, yet seriously, once had said.

She was going across the bridge, she was going to go to see Marty, since he would not come to see her.

In a way she was running away, as Buffy had, from all the things she always had known, to a different kind of world that she knew was not like the safe, serene one that had belonged to Karen Bell. But all worlds were changing; none ever would be quite the same again. And Karen, who had not wanted change of any kind, was ready now to accept and like whatever changes might come to her.

Marty had learned that lesson of Marty's philosophy well.

She would not let herself think that maybe Marty already had gone away, that she might not find him, as she drove across the bridge, heading for his trailer camp. She would find him, if not this time, the next; he could not really leave her—ever. After all, distance had nothing to do with love. He was in her heart and so a part of her, as she had known in that shared moment in the tower, and again in her awful fear for him, when she had waited at the foot of the stairs that night.

His trailer was there, the ridiculous trailer that had been in her way on the Ocean boulevard that very first time she had seen it and the odd young man who drove it and who had grinned at her and talked to her as no one ever had before. That same young man was there, too, standing in the doorway; he saw her as Karen stopped her long, low roadster with a screeching of brakes. He came forward to meet her, grinning a welcome that held merriment and charm as only Marty's grin could.

He said, "Hello there, stranger! How's the heroine?" He was calling her "names" as he had from the first and would until the very end, but she did not mind what he called her now.

She said, "I came to see you, since you wouldn't come to see me. I came to tell you something, Martin Halliday."

About Filing New Income Tax Return

By MARLOW and ZIELKE

WASHINGTON—One of every three Federal income taxpayers must file a new income tax return by September 15.

This is a declaration of estimated 1943 income and taxes. In most cases a person who has to file such a declaration will have to send in a payment with it—and make another payment on December 15.

Four classes of taxpayers must make this new report:

1. Those whose income is more than $2700 if single (or married but not living with husband or wife), or more than $3500 for a married couple, with or without dependents. As in the past, married couples may file either joint or separate returns.
2. Persons whose income isn't subject to the withholding tax—the deductions from pay withheld by employers—under pay-as-you-go. In this group are individuals who aren't on regular wages or salaries, also ministers, farm laborers and household servants.
3. All those whose income this year will be less than in 1942—if they were required to file an income tax return for 1942. If the 1942 income tax is greater than the estimated 1943 income and victory taxes, the 1942 tax becomes, in effect, the 1943 tax.
4. Those who are on regular wages or salaries subject to withholding deductions but who have additional income this year from other sources totaling more than $100.

In general, the plan is to collect income and victory taxes not being paid through deductions from pay.

All taxpayers still will have to file a final return next March.

Those who file the declarations must do these things:

Estimate their 1943 income and figure the taxes on it (including victory tax).

Total up how much has been deducted and will be deducted (if anything) for Federal income and victory taxes from their wages or salaries in all of 1943.

Add up the payments they made in March and June of this year on their 1942 taxes.

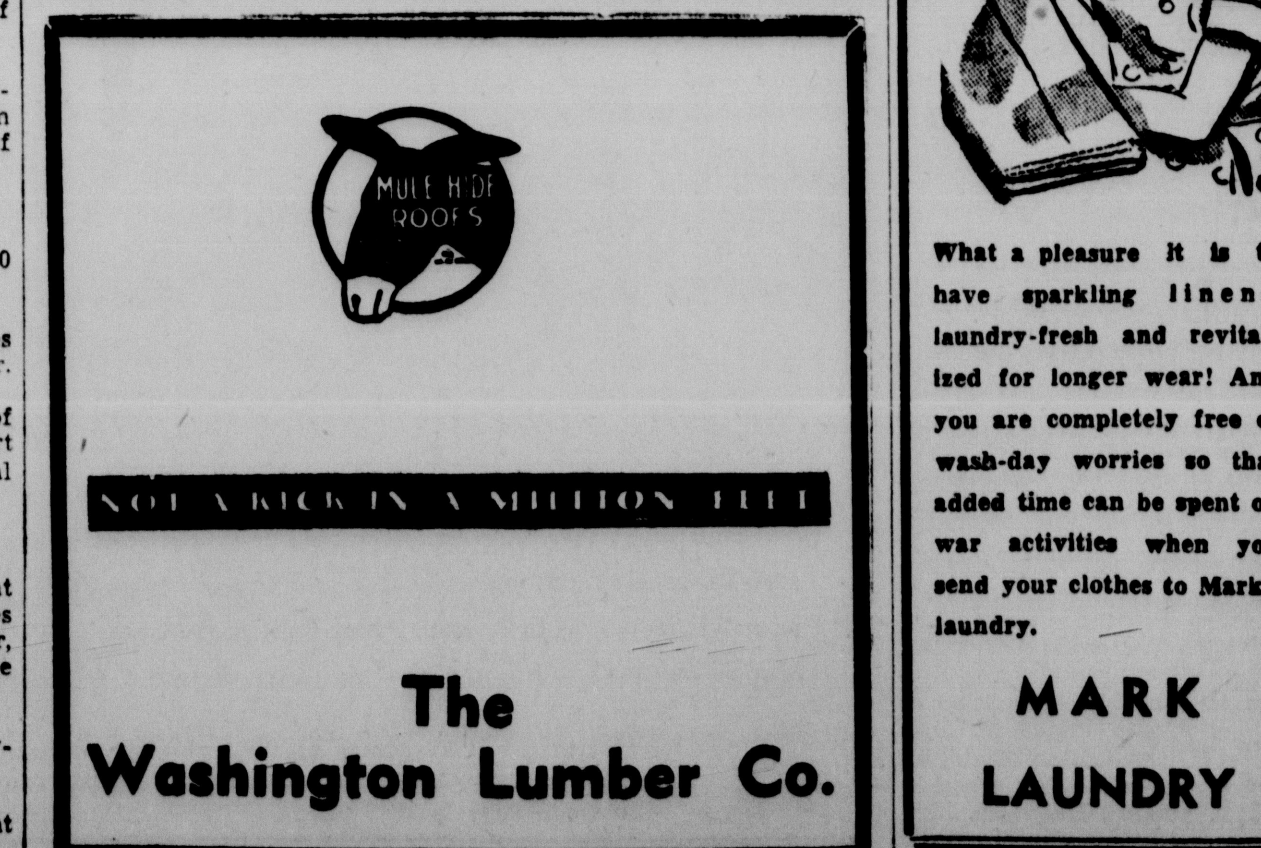

These two amounts—the total withheld from pay and the tax payments in March and June—are to be deducted from the total estimated 1943 taxes. The balance, if any, is due in equal installments on September 15 and December 15.

There are penalties for failure to estimate within 20 percent of the amount of tax as finally determined in the final report next March. However, you can file a new declaration by December 15, and pay accordingly (to escape the penalties), if there's substantial change in your income.

In any case, your total 1943 tax will be at least equal to the 1942 tax as you figured it last March, so you can check back on your last return to cut down the possibility of error.

Miss Margaret Reno, Bride Of Mr. Michael J. Fontana, In Washington, D. C., Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Otto F. Reno are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Margaret, of Washington D. C., to Mr. Michael J. Fontana, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Fontana, of New York City.

The double ring ceremony took place on Thursday evening, August 26th, at half past eight o'clock in the parlors of the First Baptist Church, Washington D. C. Rev. Harlan W. Stenger, associate pastor of the church, officiated.

For her marriage, the bride chose a street-length frock of flying blue. The dress was fashioned with a draped bodice, caught up on the right shoulder with a jeweled buckle. A similar treatment was accorded the gown at the hips, the buckle gathering the folds at the left side. She wore matching accessories and to her shoulder was pinned a single white orchid.

Miss Betty Ann Espe, of Washington D. C., who acted as bridesmaid, was wearing a two-piece ensemble of cocoa brown crepe, fastened in front with a row of small gold buttons. Her corsage was of Johanna Hill roses.

Serving as best man for the groom, was Mr. Harry Volpe, also of Washington.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for the score of wedding guests was held at the bride's apartment, after which the couple departed for a honeymoon in New York.

The bride, a graduate of Washington High School, is now employed in the Navy Department in the District of Columbia. Mr. Fontana, also formerly employed at the Navy Department, is a fifth grade technician in the U. S. Army and is now with the 812th Tank Destroyer Battalion, Camp Gordon, Georgia.

For the present, the bride will retain her position in Washington.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. —Spying— On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—(P)—The public is always what? ... After the starting gate at Aqueduct busted down Wednesday and the favorite was left at the post in a "flag" start, the Racing Commission ordered the tracks to keep a spare on hand hereafter. ... But that didn't lead the customers who had bet nearly $62,000 on Light Lady ... and while the fight fans still were cheering Henry Armstrong's decision to retire for good after his dismal showing against Ray Robinson, Hank up and decided to go through with one more against Slugger White in Los Angeles because the contract already had been signed. ... Wonder if these fellows ever stopped to think that they have an unwritten contract with the public, too—with a clause that says "if you can't give the kind of show we pay for, get out?"

Al Simmons took his seven year old son for a swing around the American League this season. ... After watching for some time while his dad either decorated the bench or tried with little success to get a few hits, the youngster asked: "Pop, do you get as much pay as the other players?" ... Simmons allowed that he got about the same as most and maybe a little more than some, then inquired what prompted the question. ... "Well, I've been watching," said the kid, "and you don't seem to do as much as they do."

If you need a chilling breeze some day, ask Clark Griffith about Rip Sewell's "New" blopper pitch. ... It was only about 40 years ago that Griffith used to kid the batters until they were ready to murder either the ball or the pitcher and then toss up a soft one underhand and watch 'em break their backs swinging before it got there. ... Richard Bromberg, son of the New York World-Telly boxing writer, is four years old today and Poppa Lester had an "extra" printed to let his colleagues about it. ... Bobo Newsum is a Senator again and maybe this time they'll give him the job for which he is best qualified—speaker.

The New Champ.
When Pvt. Joe Hennessy of Camp Roberts, Calif., a former writer on outdoor topics, attended a recent Minnesota reunion at Paso Robles, it was only natural for him to enter the tall story contest. ... After whoopers that were long as well as tall, Pvt. Hennessy arose and remarked: "Boys, I'd rather be taking a 20-mile hike in the Army any day than be catching those big muskies in Lake of the Woods." ... They awarded Joe the prize without further discussion.

1943 Ohio College Football Campaign To Be Puny Compared To Predecessors

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Sept. 1.—(P)—Ohio's 1943 collegiate football campaign appears hardly large enough to cast a shadow, when compared with the robust, 36-team drives of former seasons.

With the curtain-raiser contests only a couple of weeks away, and schedules still up in the air as the result of schools going on a "we give up" basis, here's quick comparison of the 1942 season and the 1943 outlook:

	Total Games	Night Games	Ohio Conference	Out-of-State Games	Foreign Teams Playing Here
1942	179	39	40	32	41
1943	36	4	10	8	9
Loss	143	35	30	24	32

Shorn of talent by Selective Service and enlistments, and with transportation menaced by gasoline rationing and other restrictions, 20 of the state's 36 football-playing colleges have dropped out for the duration of the war. A dozen have announced they will play, three haven't said a word, and the 36th, Kenyon, is awaiting the first squad call before making up its mind.

The 36-game slate—of which Ohio State University is playing nine—probably will be augmented quite a bit as schedules are straightened out after being tossed into turmoil by wholesale cancellations, but not more than 60 games are expected.

Of the 17 games against foreign foes, Ohio State plays nine. A year ago, in 73 jousts with out-of-state squads, Ohioans won 43, lost 28 and tied two.

Teams definitely out of the football race for the duration are Akron, Ashland, Cincinnati, Hiram, John Carroll, Marietta, Toledo, Wittenberg, Western Reserve, Youngstown, Kent State, Heidelberg.

'Last Game' Of Year Won By Presbys

For the second time the Methodists and the Presbyterians have battled it out to the end, with the victor again being the Presbyterian team, winning by a score of 9 to 1.

This game brought to an end the Washington C. H. softball activities this season, unless some of the teams decide to play a few more exhibition games.

Joe Evans, of the Presbyterian team, made three of the nine runs for his team. While for the Methodists Hook made the only run. This defeat, however, was not as bad as the first one felt by the Methodists when they played the Presbyterians, that game ended with a 12 to 0 score.

The captain of the Presbyterian team, Orr, was on the mound, while Minshall, the captain of the Methodists, held down a position on first base.

These same teams will play again next Monday at 3 P. M. at Wilson field. It is hoped by the Methodists that their luck will change by then, so that a third will not be placed on them by the Presbyterians.

20 years as a major league pilot, and hired Fred Fitzsimmons, former pitching star of the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Harris was ousted after the club had lost six games in a row and 11 out of 14. Under Fitzsimmons the Phillies turned right around and won 11 of their next 14 games, but now Cox's collection of castoffs has returned to what probably is its normal gait.

Since their early spurt under Fitzsimmons, the Phillies have lost 14 out of 18 contests and last night dropped their seventh straight for the club's longest losing streak of the season.

The latest loss was 4-2 to the Brooklyn Dodgers, who completed a sweep of their four-game series and moved into third place in the National league.

Kirby Higbe pitched six-hit ball and the Dodgers clinched their conquest in the third inning when Luis Rodriguez Olmo tripled one run across and then scored himself on an error by catcher Dee Moore, a former Dager.

Brooklyn's return to third place was gained with the help of the St. Louis Cardinals, who beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2 on two-run homer by Harry (Little Dixie) Walker in the ninth inning.

No games were scheduled in the American league.

Dayton, Wilmington, Ohio Northern, Ohio University, Defiance, Capital, Denison and Bluffton, 10 of them in Ohio Conference which leaves only nine possible starters in that unwieldy 19-college loop. Findlay, Mount Union and Muskingum haven't announced whether they will field teams, but Baldwin Wallace, Bowling Green, Case, Miami, Ohio Wesleyan, Oberlin, Ohio State, Otterbein, Rio Grande, Xavier, Wilberforce and Wooster will be in the trying.

Up to date the biggest Saturday calls for only five games—a far cry from the 1942 schedules which set as many as 25 games for some weekends.

P. S.—Some of the 36 games scheduled this season are listed as tentative.

Bucky Walters Steals Show When Reds Nose Out Cubs

CINCINNATI, Sept. 1.—(P)—There's always a bunch of "ifs" voiced about this time of the year as the end of the major league pennant races comes into sight, but the Cincinnati Reds seem to have more than the legal limit.

Right now, with the Reds playing like a team scenting the world series money, Deacon Bill McKeechie's boys are 10-1-2 games behind the St. Louis Cardinals. This is due to those "ifs."

Take the matter of double-headers, the Reds lost both ends of a dozen of these before the season was half over—some of them to the Cards.

Then there's Bert Haas. Bench-early in the year because of erratic fielding at third, Haas returned to the lineup in July at first and in the outfield, smacking the ball around in the grand manner and fielding either position like he owned them. A pre-season ankle injury to Bucky Walters was the worst blow of all. It was not until mid-July that Walters looked anything like a game-winning starter.

Last night, however, against the Chicago Cubs, Bucky had lady luck on his side. Although out-pitched by his old teammate Paul Derringer, Bucky came through with a 3-2 victory for his 12th win against as many losses.

Derringer allowed the Reds but five hits while Walters permitted nine. The Cubs opened the scoring with one run in the second but in the Reds' half of the same inning, Estel Crabtree, veteran outfielder, hit a double and scored on Steve Mesner's single.

Walters accounted for the other two Cincinnati runs. In the third he walked, raced to third on Lonnie Frey's single and scored on a fielder's choice. To open the fifth inning, Bucky smacked a triple and slid into home on a short outfielder fly.

The Reds play the second game of the Cub series this afternoon, pitting Ray Starr against Claude Passeau.

NEW LAWS ARE EXPLAINED IN BOOKLET FORM

Drivers' License Sale Begins September 7 and Ends September 30

Pamphlets containing explanations of the current motor vehicles laws will be available to the public for the first time this year it was revealed today. These pamphlets will be available when the 1944 automobile drivers' licenses go on sale September 7 at the Automobile Club here.

The principal amendment to the laws affecting motorists puts teeth in the statute covering driving responsibility in case of accident. This amended law becomes operative September 20 and thereafter a driver may lose his license for five years if he is unable to meet a judgment for damages returned against him in a court of record.

Another change in the drivers' license law lowers the age limit for a chauffeur's permit from 18 to 16 years. This change was effected to increase manpower pools, it was suggested. The law also has been liberalized to permit service men and women who are home on furlough to drive without a license, providing they were properly licensed when they entered the service.

Applicants for driver's licenses are urged by the Automobile Club here to ask for copies of pamphlets when they apply for their new licenses.

In order to obtain a new license, the applicant must produce his current license, representatives of the auto club emphasized. If the old license is lost, the applicant is requested to apply for a duplicate before the rush to obtain license begins. Applications for duplicates are sent to Columbus and if application is not made early, there may be some delay in receiving the duplicate license which will permit the purchase of a 1944 license. The fee is 40 cents. Operators will be permitted to drive while the duplicate license is being made.

The deadline for renewing licenses is September 20. The Automobile Club here will remain open from 8:30 A. M. to 5 P. M. weekdays and from 7 to 9 P. M. on Saturdays, in addition to the regular hours.

NEWSPRINT PAPER CRISIS IS FORESEEN

Rep. Clarence Brown on Tour Of Investigation

A congressional committee, including Rep. Clarence J. Brown of this district, which has been investigating the newsprint paper shortage ended its long tour of U. S. and Canada paper pulp centers at Portland, Ore., with a warning that "newspapers will be on a starvation basis by next May" unless workers are found to increase production.

The shortage can be ended and maximum production obtained with 40,000 more workers for the pulp industry in this country and Canada, said Congressman Lyle H. Boren (D-Okla.), committee spokesman, in an Oregonian interview.

DONALD RIBER NOW ACCEPTED FOR PLAYHOUSE

Leaves Here Middle of September To Begin Classes

Donald C. Riber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arch O. Riber, today is a member of the Pasadena Playhouse in Pasadena, Calif. His application, submitted at least a month ago, was approved by the admission committee.

At present, he plans to leave here the middle of September for California. His courses will begin September 27.

The Playhouse, long famed as a "School of the Theater," offers a two-year course in dramatics which encompasses all phases of stage work, such as make-up, costuming and stage-setting as well as actual acting.

He was active in high school dramatics until his graduation last spring. He appeared in the junior and senior class plays as well as other productions sponsored by the school. He attended the summer quarter at Ohio State University this summer, majoring in public speaking.

It is said that 95 percent of the graduates of Pasadena Playhouse are now on the stage or screen. Some of the graduates are Robert Preston, Anne Shirley, Mary Mason, Wayne Morris, Robert Young, Laird Cregar, Louise Allbritton, Victor Mature, Catherine Craig, Edgar Buchanan and Gwen Anderson.

Approximately 700,000 workers are directly employed in American shipyards.

LAST TAX DAY IS SEPTEMBER 11

So Far About Half of June Taxes Have Been Paid

With the last day of paying the June taxes fixed for September 11, total taxes paid into the office of County Treasurer Willis E. McCoy up to Wednesday reached $82,229, or about one half of the total amount of taxes that will be paid.

The payment of taxes has been about normal and much of the half remaining unpaid will be paid during the last days of collection, by the big utility concerns, which invariably wait until the final days before making the payments.

However, during the interval until the books are closed, there will be a general rush on the part of taxpayers generally who have neglected to look after this very important business.
